Supernatural - Dean/Lucifer - Halo (Bethany Joy Lenz)

R, dubcon, not much else to say about it?

Lucifer curls around his catch, holds still this vessel that is so very defiant, and with hands stronger than steel he holds back Dean's anger.

Dean fights, does not want the Devil in his bed, but as Lucifer keeps kissing, keeps pressing skin to skin and stops Dean's fighting, Dean begins to give in.

Not in a way that Lucifer could consider victory, but in how he opens his mouth wider and doesn't pull his legs closed so quickly and how he stops fighting the pleasure in his body.

Lucifer claims him without words, with tongue on neck and chest and more besides, with cold left in places that Dean will be discomforted in the days after and that Michael (if he claims his vessel) will know that his brother has been here first.

Dean breaks hours after Lucifer first gripped him tight and moans, a wanton sound that doesn't need to have words to mean yes.

Lucifer chuckles against his throat and slides his way deep into Dean, hands cold and steady against Dean's wrists like shackles, and Dean knows he has lost this fight.